Hi Digit, I want to thank you for enriching my life. I have been reading Digit since 2015. I came to know about you when I found your special edition of June that talk about 3D printing. With your DVD I have acquired many science and tech things. Most of my knowledge is from you. I also like the new UI of this magazine. Digit is changing my life, giving me a new perspective and helping to dream big things. Moreover I like FastTrack and dmystify book. I like devworx section. Last but not the least I have a request from you - Could you add a new section of something that says about the relationship with science and programming or Dreamland that can achieved when we combine science and art or programming or a place where Robot and A.I. are constantly developing. I will be very happy for this and I am always with your service. Thank you

First off, that's a fascinating name. Please do write back and share the origins of the "Williamson" bit. We will try and see if we can do more articles in the future like the one you are suggesting.

So, I got my hands on Digit January 2018 Edition and there's quite a big typo on Page No. 48.

In fact the typo completely changed the meaning of the word :)

Attaching the Typo and its Proof according to Google Translate...

Oh no! That's terrible, I guess we screwed up between Chitra and Chatur. This is what happens when you try and type out something in Hindi but on an English keyboard and are in a hurry. Thank you for pointing it out, and our apologies to Amar Chitra Katha for the error!

Hi, I'm an avid reader of Digit for the past few months and I am loving the magazine. So I just wanted to provide some feedback.

- 1) Can you guys do something related to Counter Strike in SKOAR?
- 2) I wanted to ask your opinion on this. I have a 3-to-4 year old PC and it's using an Intel Core-i5 3570k processor. I upgraded its GPU to the ZOTAC GTX 1050 Ti OC since I cannot afford to buy a new rig. My tech-saavy friends told me it won't work well with modern gaming but I was getting 60 frames in every game with ultra settings. I even tried a couple benchmark and it also showed me old CPU to be very good. So should I buy a new one or use the old one?

Letter of the Month

Hello Team Digit,
It's been over seven years that I have been reading Digit. It has been an amazing journey. News of Siddharth leaving was just so sad, it was as if a family member had left (hope he comes back though).

I went to thank you all for always being so supportive to your fans, and so nice, I was reading my chats with Robert from 2014 and saw that even after I annoyed him with so much useless stuff, he always very calmly replied to all my messages.

This month's issue, was awesome. Just amazing. It helped me clear all my doubts about AI, (claps for Arnab's column). The Greed and Desire sections were mouth watering as usual. I would like if there was more to the culture section. 20 points to Arnab for the "I'm Cancer" joke (Digit Diary).

Thank you for talking about Indian Comics, it was a good read.

I just have one request, please, please start an anime section. It'll be awesome. Also, I forgot to mention that I made my own gaming PC from the specs given in the Killer Rigs section, so thank you for that.

Thank you for being so awesome, keep doing what you're doing (no car posters please) and have an amazing year ahead.

May the Force be with you.

—Martand Saili

Always a pleasure to hear from you MS. Thank you for taking the time to write it all out using pen and paper and snail mailing us. We get so little snail mail anymore, so this was a nice surprise! May the force be you as well my young padawan!

—Robert
