

however, pointed out its main concern is the payment mechanism. Google officials also hinted at the company's growing focus on regional content.

Facebook

In case you want to remember who you were cyber stalking on Facebook, the social network will now allow you to review your search history. Facebook last year rolled out its Activity Log in conjunction with the revamped Time-network to cross the figure, indicating that one out of every seven individuals on the planet is using the service. Of the one billion active users, 600 million are accessing Facebook via mobile. The average user age is 22 and since its launch in 2004, the site has seen 1.13 trillion 'Likes' with 219 billion photo uploads, 17 billion of which were location-tagged. Facebook had 955 million monthly active users, 543 million of which accessed the site via mobile and 552 million daily active users on average as of June 2012.

Facebook has announced its user base in India has grown to 65 million users, from just 8 million in 2010, competing with Brazil and Indonesia for the number two spot. As of August 2012, the user base was around 50 million, suggesting a rapid growth of the social networking web site in rural and urban parts of the country.

line profile. That allowed users to review activity and approve or reject items for inclusion on their Timeline. Now, that activity log will include details on searches conducted on the site. Facebook said it will update users' activity logs with search data over the next few weeks. A link to your activity log is located in the top right-hand corner of your Timeline, just below your cover photo. You can then drill down for search-specific data.

Facebook has launched a new service called 'Facebook Gifts', which allows users to purchase gift items for their friends via the social network's desktop or mobile versions and have it delivered to their door. Facebook is rolling out the Gifts service gradually, starting with the US. Facebook users can send gifts from the birthday reminders links that appear on the right hand panel of the news feed or from a friend's Timeline by clicking the "Give him/her a gift" link or the icon for a present. There's an option to post gift notifications on Friend's Timeline or send privately.

The social networking giant has now crossed 1 billion active monthly users. This makes Facebook the first social

LinkedIn rolls out new profile design

LinkedIn has started rolling out a revamped design for its profiles which will make it easier for users to build a professional identity. The updated LinkedIn user profile is available immediately for English-language users, and will be rolled out for all users over the next few months.

Addressing a media presentation at LinkedIn headquarters, the engineering team of the professional networking web site said the new profiles come with several enhancements and new features. Some of the notable enhancements are in-line editing, sidebar for adding profile sections, high resolution images and drag and drop profile sections to sort according to users' preferences.

LinkedIn also added a new feature for users that allow them to follow the world's 'most respected thought leaders' on the site. The company says the new "follow" mechanism allows users to keep up with select groups of individuals, a "natural extension" of existing tools for following news feeds and organisations.
