

Nintendo Wii U Games

Nintendo, in one of its webcasts has revealed that its going to launch Mario Kart, Zelda and many more for its Nintendo Wii U gaming console

Corrigendum

In the January 2013 issue, we had printed ESET Smart Security 5's price as ₹1,644. It's MRP, according to ESET, is ₹999. We apologize to our readers for the error

LETTER OF THE MONTH

✉ This is my first letter to you in 12 years. And what a journey it has been – amazing! First of all, thank you not just for teaching me so much about computers but also for being a technology navigator like no other! I really have no words to describe what would have been had I not been introduced to you in my early days. I vividly remember my first copy of Digit – it was in June 2000 that my father bought it for me when he found out that I had a great interest in computers. Oh boy! How happy I was seeing so many articles dedicated only to computers and other technologies. The issue had a featured article/cover story on GPUs which was very helpful. I was able to purchase the right GPU, within the right budget just by reading that one article. From then onwards I've never looked back or even thought of changing my technology navigator.

Earlier, I used to purchase Digit right off the newsstand and would wait for it every month. With each new copy my face would light up with excitement. I read and reread each article just to get a better understanding. Each article was fun to read and thanks to the simple and fluid language you used, even my father was able to enjoy it. Thanks to you, I was crowned as the geek in my school days and all my friends used to make their purchase decisions at least after consulting once with me; nothing felt better then.

I would also like to thank you for helping me make the right career choice. Today I'm working as a Senior Engineer for Security and Identity Management, and I just love my job. I would have never been able to get here if I had never met you. Today, even after these 12 years, you're my only technology navigator and will be in the future as well! I'd like to thank Team Digit who go through all this hard work to bring out the best in everyone. That's what makes you #1! The Best! You guys deserve a lot more than this! Wish you all the best in the coming year and the years after!

Dinesh Gaikwad

📧 You've just sent the team into a blushing tizzy with your praise. Thanks.

Robert

procedures, so a product has to excel in each and every department to get 90+ overall score. Glad you loved our cover story last month. We are sure you will love this month's cover story as well.

Nimish

✉ Kudos to this month's cover page design team. This is the best cover page ever (reader since November 2006). Those cover models on competing gadget magazines look ugly comparison. Regardless, I have two complaints:

1. Where is iOS fighter jet?
2. Why has Windows got F22?

I have one more request: please add Digit to 'Zinio'. There are many Indian magazines at Zinio, and it's the only magazine application for the Playbook.

Swadhin Sangram Swain

📧 Well as one of the cover stories said – Windows 8 is indeed Microsoft's silver bullet. In the current scenario it's claimed to be the most "modern" OS with a UI that's been built ground up devoid of any skeuomorphism. It deserved an F22 don't you think? And as for iOS we had a World War II era Apple plane didn't we? We sell digital editions via Magzter currently.

Robert

✉ I've been reading Digit since the past six months. I've got to say it's a very good magazine and it covers the general tech world nicely.

One issue that I have with the magazine is that reviews are simply not up to the mark. Be it gaming or product reviews, you guys just don't cover enough information but the DVD and Fast Track make up for it. Many feel that you don't have any competitor but I'm a subscriber of Chip and find it better than your mag just because of your review section. Another issue is the placement of advertisements between your articles which really takes away interest.

I've started a tech-related page on Facebook called Tech Me Up, and would like to know what type of content would attract maximum members. Can I post links to tech-related websites without their permission? I also wanted to share Chip's reviews through my page. I wrote a review for Dishonored and will post it soon. I also want to review hardware but can't buy it so please give me some suggestions on how to review hardware without buying it.

Shaurya Rawat

📧 Instead of us replying, we'll let the next letter do that. To each his own, and no you can never "review" or "test" a product without getting it... at least that's not the way we've ever tested. You can link to anyone you want, but don't copy content and host it on your page or site.

- Team Digit

✉ I'm a Class X student and have been reading your magazine for over three years now. I just want to say that you guys are awesome. All the reviews are very useful and I can only see the flawless quality that you produce month after month. Your DVDs are also very useful. The devworx and World View sections are my favourites. When I turn over the last page of your magazine I feel like it shouldn't have ended. There's no doubt that this is the best technology magazine.

What I do want in the magazine is for you to increase content in the Skoar! section. Thank you and best of luck. I hope you maintain these standards forever.

Aleen Baruah