

Opera crosses 300m users

As Opera crossed the mark of 300 million users, it has confirmed that it will switch to WebKit. It will also reveal the new "Ice" browser at MWC

Bionic arm that 'feels' touch

The wiring of this bionic hand will be connected to the patient's nervous system for movement control and touch signals <http://dgit.in/12QI91S>

Drool maal

nCycle

Of course you'll require some form of chic transport when you're roaming around the African bushes (more likely the parking lot in your resort). We present the nCycle. Still in conceptual stage, this cycle is the first of a new breed of truly modern electric bikes. Just imagine how cool you'd look as you whizz past a tourist bus, your screams fading into the distance as you're chased by a murderous clan of meerkats.

Price: Unknown

Punt gun

Shooting a moving target can be quite a challenge, especially at range. There are a few solutions to that problem, such as practicing to improve your accuracy or maybe getting a more powerful rifle. We prefer the punt gun though. It's a beast of a gun that fires a pound of shot and would probably vaporize your target and quite a bit of the region around it. Why bring a sniper rifle when you can take this along?

Price: Priceless (it's illegal in most countries)

Treadwall rock wall treadmill

You can't very well go on a safari without getting into shape, can you? This $10,000 contraption is exactly what you need. With the ability to incline the surface at a steep, 20-degree acute angle and a lap of 20 feet, this vertical treadmill will get your upper body strength in the region of that of a normal human being (with diligent effort).

Price: $10,000