Smartphones have come a long way since they gained popularity back in 2009. The budget smartphones back then were gimmicky and plagued with a bunch of problems such as underwhelming hardware and lackluster performance. Today, however, we have come a long way since that early boom of smartphones, and devices sold in the market these days are not only capable of offering smooth performance along with a good interface, but offer great value for money and have the ability to run all the apps available on the app store quite well.

With the growth in the number of devices available in this category, we have with us 25 phones that are not only popular but have made a name for themselves when you look at the sea of devices available under the 20k price point.

We have devices ranging from a mere ₹7,200 all the way
