at a “boo” from a little sister, but will dance with abandon on the grave of a desecrated opponent. A cut-throat creature whose only aim is to win, at any cost, come what may. A mild creature on the outside, harmless even, but when in a gaming environment, it completely transforms into a feral beast. A primal terror that will rip the enemy apart with skill, precision and utter ruthlessness. Such a creature only lives for one thing, death on the battlefield and the glory that follows.

For such a creature, only the utmost precision will suffice and the SteelSeries V2 based Diablo III and Frost Blue head-sets are the only ones that can satisfy them. These headsets impressed us with the precision of their reproduction and pin-point positioning of the in-game source.

The design has compromised on bass in favour of precision of reproduction and it shows. Games and multimedia are not as much fun as they can be, but for a hardcore gamer with only gaming performance in mind, these are among the best headsets at their disposal; if a little expensive. So essentially, both these sets win the much coveted Best Performer and Editor’s Pick awards, since they’re both the same.
