

go to the History panel and retrace your steps back to the point from where you want to resume 'Photoshopping'.

The best way to learn Photoshop is by trying out all the features by yourself. See what everything does. Experimentation goes a long way. The filters, in particular, give you a lot of room for experimentation.