

Special Projects

After all this know-how you have picked up, you must be itching to create your own photo gallery. Well, there's nothing to stop you. It's normally advisable if you give yourself an assignment when you set out photographing rather than wander aimlessly looking for a photo. If you already have something planned like a vacation or an event or if a festival is round the corner, nothing better! We provide you some tips and practical examples of how you could handle such situations best. Happy Shooting.