

Install the processor in the socket

Connect the cooling fan connector to the proper labelled connector on the motherboard and then install whatever additional components are to be installed (this is explained in further chapters), and boot the computer. Check for the display. If the display comes on fine, you can give yourself a pat on the back. If it does not, you will need to repeat the process and re-install the CPU.

Finally lock the cooling fan in place