

There is a generous amount of overlap between the different types of firewalls. Some of the most commonly used firewalls are the Cisco PIX, IPFilter and VPN-1, which are network layer stateful firewalls, and Symantec enterprise firewall, which is an application-layer firewall. Apart from these, all the major anti-virus service providers have personal firewall software for single-computer protection.