

www.economist.com

If there is a magazine that gives you the best coverage of all the fiscal policies from across the world it's The Economist. The website with all its features is a must visit site. The content is divided into Premium and normal, with subscription fee for the premium content. I for one wouldn't mind paying that extra buck to read such brilliant features.

www.instupundit.com

If there is a blog that has achieved the status of a reliable news source it has to be Instapundit. With a different take on the news features that abound the net, Glenn Reynolds takes us to viewpoints that the mainstream media would avoid. Though the features are America centric, the tangents are absolutely juicy.

www.onion.com

If you liked MAD you'd love the Onion. Called America's premier satire magazine, the Onion is a perfect read for those gloomy days or the time at work when all you want to do is doze off. Oh yeah it also gives you something witty to talk about...for the evening at least.