

www.nationalgeographic.com/kids

National Geographic provides a content rich website for kids that is not only informative but expands the reasoning and understanding of kids of their habitat. The sections are intuitive and encourage children to expand on their creativity.

www.4kids.org

This site claims to be the "Tecknowledgy" site for kids. True to its name the site covers a number of areas from 'fun' stuff to how to surf safely. The KidQuest challenge also encourages the children to find answers to a variety of questions by surfing the web.
