

9.9 Technology Websites

Lastly we take a look at a few technology websites that Team Digit keeps referring back to. Here's a list of our all time favourite tech web sites.

www.tomshardware.com

One of the most visited websites worldwide. This website has a host of sections and entices the novice and professionals alike. Articles related to hardware and software upgrades, reviews, whitepapers and buying guides; you name it and its there. A complete and very useful resource website.

www.extremetech.com

Extremetech has been a primary source of reviews and articles for millions of computer users worldwide and is still going strong. Similar to tomshardware.com this website features articles and reviews for everything that is even remotely related to computers.

