

ever-increasing number of journalists who use their blogs as points for dispensing information.

The Indian government, too, has decided to grant press status to a few select bloggers.