

5.1 You Should Know...

5.11 Gaming Today

Games... where would we be without them? In a relatively short span of time, gaming has revolutionized our lives. It has grown from being a simple tool to pass our free time to a worldwide phenomenon. The video game industry itself is estimated to be worth $10 billion per year. Believe it or not, this is more than what even Hollywood rakes in!

One of the paradigm shifts to have taken place here over the last few years has also seen games appeal to a wider audience and not just teenagers. In countries like the US, gaming has even become a career option with players such as "Fatal1ty" making a good living by winning some tournaments. Make no mistake: Gaming today is serious business.