

microchip in each device. Bluetooth lets these devices talk to each other when they come in range, even if they are not in the same room, as long as they are within up to 100 metres (328 feet) of each other. Most smart phones and PDAs sold nowadays are compatible with the Bluetooth technology.