

sarily require a Hotmail e-mail ID. Follow the instructions in the .NET Passport Wizard.

After you sign in, Windows Messenger will open, displaying your list of contacts and online status. If this is your first time using Windows Messenger, click 'Add a contact' to start building a contact list.

Adding Contacts

Click on 'Add a contact' in the lower part of the Messenger window. The next window asks you whether you want to add a new contact using his or her e-mail ID/sign-in name or by searching for a contact. Follow the instructions that follow in the wizard. The new contact will be added to your list.

Adding a new contact

If the person you have just added is online at that time, he or she will get a pop up message informing that you have done so. They also have the option to allow you to see their online status or to deny access. They can also add you to their contact list at time. In case the other person is not signed in to Windows Messenger at that time, they will get the message whenever they sign in next. If they choose to allow you access, you can see their status online and send them instant messages using Windows Messenger.

Sending An Instant Message

You can start instant messaging in several ways:

- m Double-click the name of a contact online
- m Right-click on a contact's name and then click 'Send an Instant Message'
- m Click on the 'Actions' menu, click 'Send an Instant Message', and then click a contact's name