

The Basics Of JavaScript

Most people who learn HTML to use on their Web sites aren't programmers by nature or profession, but it would be unfair to not let them have the same interactivity in their Web pages as any desktop application. JavaScript is a scripting language—a “diet” programming language—designed to be easy to learn and use even for novices, and by the end of this chapter, you'll be able to write basic JavaScript code even if you've never written a program before.
