

the DVD options for the selected video clip. You can edit the number of chapters a particular clip has by right-clicking on the Chapters drop-down and selecting the Chapter Options button. Chapters allow you to easily skip to parts in your video.

Click on the Settings button on the right-hand menu. This opens a window that displays the video conversion options you can access. The TV format tab allows you to choose between the NTSC and PAL formats. It also allows you to change your movie to widescreen mode.

Once you're done changing settings, click on the Convert button at the bottom right-hand corner to convert the video clips to DVD video files. You can change the default location of these files by using the Settings option. After the files have finished converting, hit Burn DVD under the Action tab to burn your disc.

Choose your own menu background with VSO

ConvertXtoDVD allows you to edit the number of chapters in your video