

a contest of sorts. The forum is fully searchable.

Actually, there's more: clicking on the News link takes you to the latest news related to anything video, and there are articles on the left. A sample list of what you can expect from the site:

- Digital Director's Rough guide to making a scripted video.
- Shoot to Edit: A Guide to Using Your Camcorder
- A Quickstart Guide to Blue Screening—Part One
- Four Free Video Upload Sites
- Shooting Fireworks
- Create a Killer Voiceover
- Create a DVD for Free
- Guide to using your free webspace with digital-director.com
- Working with volume in Premiere

Definitely worth a visit (or two, or three).

www.dvforum.com

Another forum. Not as large as videoforums.co.uk, but useful nonetheless. The broad topics include General Video, Video Hardware, DVD Authoring, Video Editing, Audio, and Consumer Video. This seems to be a place where even rank beginners come
