

Security

We've heard from many that open source platforms and operating systems are more secure than those of the rivals. On the other hand, the free and open source tools are dismissed by the others as being "no good." What is the reality? We shall let you decide as you get to evaluate some of the best security solutions the community effort has to offer.