

Perhaps one of the best parts of Google.com is their “Labs” segment, which showcases the upcoming projects and software that Google is working on. Everything from Alpha to Beta versions of their software and services are available here, and this chapter will walk you through understanding some of the goodies on show here

Google Labs

As Google puts it, Google Labs “showcases a few of (our) favourite ideas that aren’t quite ready for prime time. Your feedback can help us improve them. Please play with these prototypes and send your comments directly to the Googlers who developed them.” Essentially, Google products that come under this category haven’t been released yet, but can be used. They don’t officially fall under the Google umbrella, and Google even says, “These technologies are still in the beginning stages of development, so they may disappear

The Google Labs home