

This edition also has templates that assist one in building the ad, by asking a few simple questions. Step-by-step procedures allow the advertiser to get tips on what keywords should be selected.

The screenshot shows the '3. Choose keywords' step in the Google AdWords interface. It includes a section titled 'Who will see your ad?' with instructions on keyword selection. Below this is a text input field for keywords, with examples like 'new device', 'best deals', and 'luxury cruise to new'. To the right, there is a 'Want more?' section with a 'Search' button and a link to 'Advanced option: match types'. A small inset window in the top right corner shows a preview of the ad.

Keywords

You fix your monthly budget and pay Google in your local currency. The more you spend for the keyword, the ad will be displayed more often with higher ad positioning when the keyword is typed into the search engine. This is a bidding process: ads of the highest-quoted keywords are displayed more often, with higher ad positioning.

AdWords Standard Edition has all the features of Starter Edition with a lot more tools. Here, ads can be targeted to multiple regions at once, whereas in the Starter Edition, it is only for one region or one language.

The screenshot shows the '5. Set your budget' step in the Google AdWords interface. It includes a section titled 'What is your monthly budget?' with instructions on budgeting. Below this are four radio button options: '800 per month', '2,000 per month', '8,000 per month', and a blank box for 'per month'.
