

3. Change your account name: This is an administrative action that will require an elevation prompt, and can thus only be done under an admin login, or by a standard user who knows the admin password. This option allows you to change the name of the user. This name will appear in the Start menu and the Welcome screen,

Setting the user name and new personal directories under the new name would be created. Settings from your current directories will be migrated to the new one

4. Change you account type: Another administrative action which requires an elevation. Here you can change the type of your account between an Administrator account and a Standard account. Note

Setting the user type