

8.1 Tezaa (<http://www.tezaa.com/>)

Can't seem to choose between blue shoes or black shoes? An Activa or a Nova? Tezaa is a mobile community site that runs on only one simple theory, making online polls. The site emphasises that you can make better choices by knowing what your peers think.

A slick Web site with slicker content

When signing up, all you have to do is enter a username and a password and enter an e-mail address. Then click on the sign up button. Tezaa will then send you an automated e-mail reply in which you have to follow a link to activate your profile. Once in, you can view the popular polls currently posted on the site. You can browse through all the polls, vote for them and even create a new poll anonymously. You can also search for a poll and see if it already exists to help him choose better. If you have an open-ended question can post in the section called "Open Questions" where the user community will suggest the best answers. You can also create a poll, customize it and add it to your Web site or blog.
