

and the interfaces and they become the same. To remain in business in the notoriously fickle Internet market where attention spans are abysmal and customer loyalty almost a mirage, these sites have to reinvent themselves and adopt a model more suited for Indian populations.