

bar, using small icons, and removing the text accompanying the icons. Right-click on the toolbar, select Customize, and then drag all the menu icons and search box to the menu bar. Click OK and then go to View > Toolbars > Mail Toolbars to hide the now-empty mail toolbar. Your compacted Thunderbird user interface will look like this:

Re-arrange and customise the menu bar to your liking

Mail Toolbars to hide the now-empty mail toolbar. Your compacted Thunderbird user interface will look like this:

The minimalist look for the power user

Visit the Thunderbird Themes site at <https://addons.mozilla.org/en-US/thunderbird/browse/type:2> for skin customisations you can apply right away. For example, if you are a Harley-Davidson fan, a nice skin is at <https://addons.mozilla.org/en-US/thunderbird/addon/4511>.

Harley-Davidson fans skin Thunderbird here!