

c) The Drawing Toolbar: pretty visible, stretched horizontally along the bottom of the screen, just beneath the tri-pane view.

The Drawing Toolbar along the lower edge of your screen

If, however, any of the toolbars are not visible (or none are), simply right-click on the menu bar above and left-click to tick any of the toolbars you want revealed. For example, to reveal the Standard toolbar, right-click on the Menu bar and left-click on the Standard option. Alternatively, you could go the View > Toolbars > Standard way.

A total of 20 toolbars are available for use. In PowerPoint 2007, the toolbars are a whole lot visible and self-evident. In fact, according to Microsoft, they've surprised us by replacing the menus and toolbars with the Ribbon.

Use the drop down menu to show toolbars

Toolbars, toolbars, everywhere