

Continuing with the education theme, if it were made mandatory for members of a class project to each do a presentation, it would elicit more participation. This applies to any kind of presentation, actually.

We could ramble at this point, but the bottom-line is, presentations have impact. Just as italics do.