

tion, you're better off editing it in an image editor like Adobe Photoshop before adding it to your presentation.

Use the Picture toolbar to make basic edits to images

You can also scan images directly into your slide: go to Insert > Picture > From Scanner or Camera. For more on working with images and other graphics, turn to chapter 14.

4.4 Final Touches

When you're done with the content of your presentation, you need to slap on some make-up, so to speak. When used judiciously, animations and themes can keep your audience attentive for a good bit longer than otherwise.

To apply a theme to your presentation, click on the Design button on the main toolbar to bring up the Slide Design task pane, with a collection of themes (use the Design tab in PowerPoint 2007). Choose the theme that suits your fancy and it'll get applied to all the slides in the presentation.
