

Newsgroups and RSS

With the ability to share things in real-time, it's no wonder that the Web has revolutionised the way the world shares news and information. RSS readers are perhaps the most popular way of syndicating news that you like and presenting it all to you in a unified interface. Newsgroups on the other hand bring like-minded people together, and allow them to share news of interest. This chapter will focus on both.