

Blogging

Blogging doesn't really need any introduction, but since we always introduce the subject of our article, let us get this essential job out of the way.

A portmanteau of Web and log-blogs are simply personalised Web sites that are as good as an online diary.

That was the intended definition. These days, however, collaborative blogs by corporate teams have sprouted all over the Internet.