

has been reported that even on faster machines with broadband connection, the Ajax interface is painfully slow.

Pownce is not very different to Twitter. When trying to share files, sharing multiple files made the application go crazy. You have to zip the files and send the zipped archive as well. Like Twitter, Pownce also provides badges, a widget which can be put on any Web site to display your updates. Nothing new or notable here. Pownce looks like a me-too service and attempts to be a micro-blogging tool. A file sharing utility with a messaging service, it's literally the jack of all trades and master of none!

Badges for your Web site