

There are some other types of operators used in PHP. Let's look at those:

Logical operators:

Logical Operators

And

Or

Xor

Functions

Checks if two or more statements are true

Same as And

Checks if at least one of two statements is true

Same as Or

Checks if only one of two statements is true

Checks if a statement is not true

Increment and decrement operators:

Increment / Decrement Operator	Name	Function
++value	Pre-Increment	This operator adds 1 to the value before processing the expression that can use it.
--value	Pre-Decrement	This operator subtracts 1 from the value before processing the expression that uses the value
value++	Post-Increment	This operator adds 1 to the value after processing the expression by which the value can be used
value--	Post-Decrement	This operator subtracts 1 from the value after processing the expression which uses the value
