trim()

The trim() function is used to remove the white spaces from both sides of a string. This function was introduced in PHP3.

Example:

```
<?php
$text = "\t\t We are using trim :) ... ";
$strimed = trim($text);
echo $strimed."";
$strimed = trim($text," \t.");
echo $strimed."";
?>
```

The output of the above program is as follows:

```
We are using trim :) ...
We are using trim :)
```
