

the Live Vjing mode, which is a common video editing format. If you want to edit in real time, while recording, you can then continue to edit in real time, while recording. Editors are very small files that can accomplish as much as some of the really is no free program with the same functions. Linux will do for most editing for something like that. It is not advisable.

Videos

