

Note here that on changing the orientation of the light the shading changes. Another thing to notice is that the lines are not uniform in thickness, it's thickness fades towards the specular area.

Hence the "curvature" of the surface has to be kept in mind. Take simple shader to get the "shading" hence curvature of the object. Connect the Output color to a reverse node input.