

when clicked. Whenever a user has achieved or done something interesting, send his friends some notification regarding it. It generally works as viral marketing. You can keep a page in your application, where a user can monitor which of his friends also use it and track the activities of his friends for that application. It all depends on your creativity. 