

a few domain registrations. Plus, they're usually the type to search online and find services as and when they need them, so for individuals, you need to spend too much time on SEO and making your web site easy to find – another task that's just too daunting for most businesses that are just starting out.

These are the main reasons why throughout this Fast Track we will be focussing on small and medium businesses as potential clients for you.

2.1.2 Small businesses

The most important thing to remember when targeting small businesses

You could use services such as JustDial.com to find businesses in your locality that don't have web sites yet, and pitch your services to them
