

Free email services

With services such as Google Apps available for free, don't fall for the number of email addresses. Be it 50 or 100. For these numbers, Google Apps offers a much better QoS. Not only do you enjoy Google's uptime, but also superior anti-spam filters and additional functionality such as POP/IMAP configuration and chat capabilities for free. You've read about setting up Google apps for your domain in earlier issues of Digit. In case you want to get a quick hold of how to proceed, we recommend our article in the April 2008 issue of Digit. Here you'll learn to use free and powerful email, chat and online document services over your domain, with highly secure standards. Although this is true for a one time setup, your clients may prefer a more customised, branded email account for themselves. Some may not like the idea of their business email being handled by Google either.

In order to be able to cater to rising customer needs, you need to be equipped with the best possible services available. You need to be able to offer a literal guarantee on your uptime and the uptime for your client's web site, as well as give them the assurance of protection from cyber attacks

Security

Security is a primary concern among those that start new web sites and services. In fact, your clients would also be increasingly seeking advice on the best practices in the industry. You'll be surprised at the increasing awareness these days. In order to be able to cater to rising customer needs, you need to be equipped with the best possible services available. You need to be able to offer a literal guarantee on your uptime and the uptime for your client's web site, as well as give them the assurance of protection from cyber attacks. You won't be able to do so if you don't get a sense of assurance from your own service provider.

Bandwidth available

Most reseller accounts would give you unlimited bandwidth. Be careful while evaluating the service provider you would choose. For example, one web site offers a reseller account with a 50 GB space limit. You may not notice a difference, but as you client list grows and each of them begins to upload rich multimedia content, you will begin to feel the pinch.

By opting for an unlimited space, unlimited bandwidth option in the beginning itself, you are ensuring that you're future-proof. Prominent players such as GoDaddy and Resellerclub, for example, offer reseller accounts with no cap whatsoever.
