

6.5 Online marketing

Online marketing through Social Media channels or Search Engines is a way to drive visitors to your website. Online marketing will go a long way to stimulate traffic to your website. For search engine marketing your preferred goal should be to rank high for keywords relevant to your website. These should be in organic or natural searches as opposed to paid advertisements – because let's face it at the start of your business you're not going to invest in Google Adwords. Search engines use something known as crawlers to index content. Now your job is to make sure that these crawlers get to know exactly what your website is about. One of the oldest tricks in the book is to have a very descriptive or keyword rich page title. You need to place this description in the <HEAD></HEAD> tags, in this format: <TITLE>Best, cheap, web hosting, web development design solutions India</TITLE>. This same title will appear as the window / tab heading in any browser.

One of the important things to remember is the concept of keyword prominence – or the practice of using words that people are most likely to search appear first in the title. This title will also be the blue hyperlinked text on the search engine results page. So choose wisely. The text or description that appears below the hyperlink is from the description Meta Tag. You need to write one for your website as well. The <Meta> tag also needs to be put between the <Head> tags.
