6.5.3 Get listed in directories

It is important for your site to be listed in directories like the Open Directory Project (www.dmoz.com) which is edited by a bunch of volunteer editors. Another important directory is the one run by Yahoo! (dir.yahoo.com). Some small tips while entering your website is to keep it short and simple. Don't be too lengthy with descriptions as human editors review most of the entries.

6.5.4 Social Media Marketing

Popularising your site and service through Social Media is a huge subject. It can provide that one differentiator between you and everyone else offering a similar type of service. Social media marketing is growing rapidly and has a huge scope and appeal. Social media is all about people and reputation. The idea is to use the major social channels such as blogs, social networking sites, social bookmarking sites, and forums to get people to talk about your service. Once enough people start talking about you and your service it will gain critical mass and go viral. In simple words it's like word of mouth publicity but on a much grander scale as it is in the online world and hence has a cascading effect. Social media help
