

ith digital music, videos, and books tucked inside your iOS device's slim glass-and-metal form, you have plenty of choices for entertainment. But if you want to play instead of just sitting back and pushing Play, your phone/tablet makes a nice high-def game console as well. You can zap zombies, thwart governments, and channel your inner Dale Earnhardt Jr. You can also relive your glory days at the arcade. With Game Center:

- ▶ You can discover new games and share your game experiences with friends around the world in Game Center.
- ▶ Invite your friends to play, or use auto-match to find other worthy opponents.
- ▶ Check leader boards to see who the best players are. Earn bonus points by achieving specific accomplishments in a game.

To use Game Center, you need an Internet connection and an Apple ID. If you already have an iTunes Store, MobileMe, or other Apple account, you can use that Apple ID with Game Center. If you don't already have an Apple account, you can create a new one in Game Center, as described below.

Setting up Game Center

When you first open Game Center, you're asked if you want to allow push notifications. (You may first be asked if you want to turn on Notifications.) Notifications may include alerts, sounds, and badges that let you know about Game Center events even when you're not using Game Center. For
