

b. Create the application project in the IDE.

During the project creation, define HelloFlashApp as the name of your project, select the project type as Flash Based Application, and select the downloaded manifest file (if you downloaded one in the previous step). Specify in the Flash file field the location where you have stored the flash file that you want to play (for practice purposes, you can use the .swf files provided within the FlashControl sample application in the bada SDK). For all other values, use the default values in the application wizard.

3. The new HelloFlashApp project is shown in the Project Explorer view

Defining the flash file location