

What lies ahead in man's exploration of the vast unknown...

Now that man has made it a habit to go into space, what lies next in our exploration of the great beyond? It has been over 40 years since the Americans first stepped on the moon and a lot of other countries are working towards launching manned lunar missions once again.