Access Store Apps Without the Start Screen

If you wanted to be able to launch a Store application without going through the start screen, you are out of luck. While you can associate files with such applications and they will launch when you try to open the associated files, there is no simple way to create a shortcut to a Modern UI app.

There is however a way to create a shortcut to the a folder that contains all start screen apps. All you need to do is create a new shortcut and point it to the following location:

```
%windir%\explorer.exe shell:::{4234d49b-0245-4df3-b780-3893943456e1}
```

When you click on this shortcut a new explorer window will launch with all your start screen apps, you can launch them from here, but that is pretty much it.

Add a Toolbar to Explorer

If you are not a fan of the ribbon UI in Explorer and would like to rather
