

Endomondo Sports Tracker

Endomondo is a popular social fitness tracker to track your physical activity. It supports a truckload of activities that can be monitored such as running, cycling, kayaking and skating. The interface is simply laid out; the app (with the help of GPS) tracks the distance, time and speed of your workout. It also traces your path on a map. The history will show you the high and low points of your activity. It's not just about statistics; it even has audio cues that will help keep you motivated. You can give or take a challenge with other users to make it competitive.

Price: Free

Link: <http://dgit.in/FTEndomondo>

Sleep Time

The Sleep Time app, available for iOS and Android, helps you monitor your sleep pattern. It uses the phone's accelerometer to sense your movements (you must keep it near you when in bed). Using a variety of algorithms, it will wake you up at the most appropriate time. Don't worry: you can set a 30-minute window between which it will wake you up, so that you're not late for anything. The app tries to wake you up in your light sleep phase, thereby making you feel rejoiced and relaxed, instead of cranky and irritable.

Price: Free; iOS ₹55

Link: <http://dgit.in/FTSleepTime>

