

Well, enough with the history lessons, let's get on with this book, shall we? Although there are more number of apps out there than you can ever hope to try, we believe there are some you should not be without. That's why we've created a couple of categories and handpicked what we think are the best apps that deserve your attention. We've tried to choose apps that are compatible with a variety of platforms. Apart from these, there are, of course, some apps that are unique and only useful on a particular OS; for instance, widgets and launchers on Android. Keeping this in mind, we've also curated apps for each smartphone platform that are must-haves. Each app listing has symbols to indicate platform compatibility. We've also put an iPad icon whenever the apps in question work well on the iPad.

To enable easy installation of the apps there are QR codes given for each app. Just point your phone to the QR code and it'll take you either to the app store or the app maker's website for easy installation. Alternatively we've also given shortlinks. To read QR codes, open up Bing Vision on Windows Phone. On other platforms you can download one of the apps listed under utilities.

So pour yourself a large cup of coffee (or tea), sit back and give this Fast Track a spin. We hope that you'll discover apps that will make your life better, as they've made ours.
