

iOS

Trillian

Despite the surge in instant messaging apps like WhatsApp, many people still prefer good ol' Google Talk. While Android users have Google Talk built-in, for iOS we think Trillian is a good third-party alternative.

For one, it has a clean, non-ugly design (a rarity in most Gtalk apps for iOS). Other than Gtalk, it lets you log into FB, Yahoo, MSN and even ICQ. You can choose your mostly spoken to contacts at the beginning, and they permanently show as thumbnails on the top of the screen. Moving between multiple chats is as easy as swiping sideways.

Price: Free

Link: <http://dgit.in/FTTrillian>

PlayerXtreme HD

PlayerXtreme HD supports most popular formats such as XviD, DivX and MKV so there's no converting to a compatible file format for iOS required. Another good thing — there's no syncing business, just use the 'File Sharing' menu in iTunes and you can transfer videos from any computer. PlayerXtreme HD has in-app purchases that enable features such as subtitles and a volume booster. You also have a folder guard to protect your videos from prying eyes. While the player is mostly free to download on the App Store as part of a "limited offer", sometimes it is charged to the tune of $2-5.

Price: Free

Link: <http://dgit.in/FTPlayerX>