

SAFETY APPS

In a world fraught with all sorts of dangers, there are some mobile apps which help keep us alert

Disaster can strike you anywhere — on your city streets, while walking or driving down the road and even in the virtual world where we house a lot of our critical data. While natural disasters can't be prevented, misadventures with fellow humans can be avoided with timely intervention and necessary precautions. Last year's horrifying Delhi rape case has brought to prominence a bunch of personal safety related apps for women. With smartphone penetration increasing by the day, it makes sense to load relevant applications onto your 24/7 companion which will keep your close relatives and friends clued into your whereabouts.

Smartphones getting lost is another major concern. You surely don't want unruly elements getting access to your personal email accounts or other private data.

Now we take a look at some must-have mobile applications for your phone to protect you on the personal as well as virtual front. These apps will help thwart attacks on you and your friends on the streets, safeguard your cellphone from thieves and malware and protect you from road accidents. This list of apps should be given top priority for download as soon as you buy yourself or a friend/family member a new cellphone.
